

Warner Park to host U-20 women's qualifiers

Written by Contributor

Thursday, 09 November 2017 -

Basseterre, St. Kitts, 9th November, 2017 - The CONCACAF Caribbean Women's U-20 Qualifiers will be held at the Warner Park Football Stadium, 22 to 26 November.

Teams from Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Jamaica and St. Kitts and Nevis will compete for a place in the finals, slated to take place in Trinidad & Tobago.

Officials of the St. Kitts-Nevis Football Association are encouraging the general public, but particularly all football lovers to come to Warner Park and support the St. Kitts-Nevis National U-20 Women's Football Team.

The two top teams in these qualifiers will advance to the final championship games in Trinidad.

Warner Park to host U-20 women's qualifiers

Written by Contributor
Thursday, 09 November 2017 -

Two groups have already been determined for the finals in Trinidad.

The groups were determined during a 7th November draw in Miami, for the 18th January, 2018 Championship slated for Couva, Trinidad.

Group A comprises teams from Trinidad & Tobago, Costa Rica, Canada and a Caribbean Team.

Group B comprises teams from United States, Nicaragua, Mexico and a Caribbean Team.

The two Caribbean teams will be determined from the Qualifiers at Warner Park.

Warner Park to host U-20 women's qualifiers

Written by Contributor

Thursday, 09 November 2017 -

According to CONCACAF, the Ato Boldon Stadium, in Couva, Trinidad, will host all sixteen matches, to be played across eight match days in January. The tournament will qualify three teams directly to the FIFA U-20 Women's World Cup France 2018.

In the previous edition of the CONCACAF Under-20 Women's Championship played in Honduras in 2015, the United States won its fourth straight championship at this level, with a 1-0 win over Canada in the final.